Houghton-Hancock

Their principal industry is a college

Houghton-Hancock is the home of the Michigan College of Mining and Technology. This school is famous the world over as a training ground for top-flight engineers now serving from Alaska to New Zealand. The campus features a recently completed $6,000,000 mineral and forestry research center.

One of the prime reasons behind the college's location here is that the "sister cities" are located in the heart of the old copper country. The surrounding area is virtually an "open air" laboratory.

The cities also boast another famous college — Suomi College and Theological Seminary, the only Finnish-American institute of higher learning in the country.

Sport-wise, Houghton-Hancock folks are renowned as great hockey enthusiasts. Teams from here are constantly among the best in the Northland. In fact, a new $110,000 rink was recently built, and on hockey nights you can find practically everyone in the area in attendance.

Visitors to Houghton-Hancock have much to see. Among other things, they'll be able to go through the most extensive minerals museum established at any American educational institution. Put Houghton-Hancock on your next itinerary. You'll never be sorry you did.
